To whom it may concern:

After going to high school in Las Vegas, I felt like I lost my time in those four years. The teachers were not strict and careless about the students’ education. After joining UNLV, I felt ENG 113 was a lot harder than those highschool courses. The teacher was really helpful since he would take the time to explain those details that an American student already knew. For example, grammar lessons were really useful for me and I thank the program since I now feel more confident about writing any paper. This course have help me out to my other classes and even my research paper for Biol 100. I believe that if I had taken a regular class the teacher would have not taken the dedication to explain me the basic grammar.
